

Twenty-five years of service to migrants

Good Neighbour Council of South Australia
Our Silver Year of Folklore: 25 Years of Service to Migrants Adelaide, the Folk Arts Committee of The Good Neighbour Council of South Australia Inc., 1974.

Excerpt from a Program of Dance, Song and Music to mark the 25th Anniversary of the Good Neighbour Council of South Australia.

The Good Neighbour Movement is a nationwide voluntary organisation formed to help people from other lands settle happily into the family of the nation. Through its members it offers the hand of friendship and provides a link with community resources which will enable new settlers to use their talents for the benefit of themselves and the nation. Good Neighbour is a way of life and its services are always available whenever they are needed.

Good Neighbour promotes understanding of problems associated with immigration and co-ordinates the efforts of hundreds of community organisations which have adopted its philosophy. It is non-party-political, non-sectarian and non-fund-raising. Good Neighbour encourages national and ethnic groups to take part in the life of the community and fosters the preservation and presentation of ethnic culture by uniting the activities of various folklore dancing groups, national orchestras, choirs and drama groups.

You, too, can become a Good Neighbour by offering the hand of friendship to your neighbours, particularly those from overseas and by referring those who need help to the Good Neighbour Council.

Perhaps you may care to play an even more active role and join Good Neighbour. A telephone call (51-3568) or a letter to 47 Waymouth Street, Adelaide, would receive immediate attention. We would not ask you to spend hours and hours contacting new arrivals - we would only request you to devote as much time to this rewarding work as you tell us you can spare.
